

Join us for the 24-hours of Political Psychology!

January 17 & 18, 2020 (start and finish around lunchtime), FernUniversität in Hagen

Political Psychology is a growing research field, also in Germany. The interest in the psychology of political behavior and processes appears in various disciplines. However, despite a growing number of publications in the field there is little exchange between researchers of different disciplines.

In order to tackle this issue, we invite you to the first German Political Psychology meeting, to be held in January 2020 at the FernUniversität in Hagen. This event aims to bring together scholars from different fields interested in political psychology, allowing to exchange ideas and explore mutually reinforcing avenues for further study. This way, we hope to contribute to an emerging regional network, to inspire collaboration and to facilitate dialogue between political psychologists from different fields of study in Germany.

The workshop has an open format. Researchers on all stages of their career are invited to present work in different phases, be it research plans, work in progress, or worked-out papers. The meeting will also be open to all research topics related to political psychology, for example, but not limited to the following themes:

- Conflict, Violence, and Terrorism
- Intergroup Relations
- Personality Traits, Emotions and Politics
- Political Behavior, Participation, and Civic Engagement
- Public Opinion and Political Communication
- Information Processing and Political Decisions Making
- Political Culture, Identity, Values, and Language
- Social Inequality, Social Change, and Civic Development
- International Relations, Globalization, and Macropolitical Issues
- Biology, Genetics, and Neuroscience
- Race, Gender, Ethnicity, and Religion
- New Theoretical and Methodological Developments

We have an exciting line-up of invited talks by Michaela Maier, Professor of Applied Communication Psychology at the University of Koblenz-Landau and an expert on political communication, and Thorsten Faas, Professor of Political Sociology at the FU Berlin and an expert on election studies.
